

Version 0.1

VOLYA

An ENDEAVOUR Adventure by Dannielle Harden

Acknowledgements

Much of the look and feel of ENDEAVOUR is derived from its art, all of which was created by sveklold. This art was assembled from multiple collections available online at shutterstock.com and then modified by Michael Purcell.

Playtesters

The following people helped to create ENDEAVOUR by playing early versions of the game and providing invaluable feedback.

- Keydan Bruce
- Dannielle Harden
- Andrew Hellyer
- David McKenzie
- Paul Murray
- Hendrik ten Napel
- Kira Purcell
- Luke Purcell
- Meagan Purcell
- Jo Stephenson
- Brett Witty
- Bevis Worcester
- Evan Worcester

Design Tools

The following tools were used to create this document:

- LuaLaTeX: Typesetting and layout.
- TikZ: Diagrams and art.

The fonts used are TT Mussels Bold Italic, Futura, and TeX Gyre Schola (cf. Century Schoolbook).

Contact: endeavour.ttrpg@gmail.com

For use with the PARAGON system, ©2020

John Harper & Sean Nittner. AGON-RPG.com

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons "Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International" license.

Volya

Captain's Log: Three weeks ago, the government of Volya reported a dramatic surge in both petty crime and in missing person cases. Since that time, however, the ICF been unable to contact the Volyans to determine the full extent of the problem. We have been dispatched to the planet to investigate further.

Volya has a strict society with complex cultural norms. As such, we have undergone specialized training in Volyan etiquette while en route. Furthermore, we have been issued special uniforms which shroud the entire body from view; standard-issue ICF uniforms would be considered lewd.

Arrival

As you approach Volya, you find many cargo ships in orbit. The traffic congestion around the planet is beginning to pose a serious safety threat. The density of ships is such that any accidents would be likely to initiate a cascade of collisions.

The traders report that they have been unable to contact the Volyan authorities. One Volyan trader has spoken with an old friend named Prash. The trader's daughter, Diminin, works for Prash, but has been missing for several weeks.

Duty of Care

- Will you try to establish order among the merchant ships? Operations & Engineering vs. Traffic Jam (2d8).

If you do not prevail at this challenge, then during the Crisis you must face the following Threat: A cascade of collisions makes travel to or from Volya impossible.

- Or will you try to contact the Volyan government and begin your investigation without further delay? Leadership & Negotiation vs. Volyan Etiquette. If you prevail, gain a 1d6 Advantage die on all challenges vs. Volyan Etiquette.

Trials

Augmented Reality

Zephan appears to be entirely vacant of people. Oddly, the facades of most buildings have been replaced with featureless white panels. Without Visors, the city is nearly impossible to navigate. Can you find a way to acquire a set of Visors?

Operations & Engineering vs. Volyan Etiquette.

Minding His Own Business

Prash's shop is remarkable for being one of the few still displaying traditional decorations. Prash politely explains that he cannot treat with offworlders without his assistant, Diminin, present to observe. He refuses to violate Diminin's privacy by saying more. Can you convince Prash to tell you where you can find Diminin? Strategy & Tactics vs. Prash.

Missing Person

In contrast to the featurelessness of the city's public spaces, Diminin's home is a riot of vulgar (by Volyan standards) self-expression. She is reluctant to entertain visitors, and will not meet with you here. She has not left her home without a Visor since she acquired one several weeks ago. Can you help Diminin find a way to more confidently reengage with Volyan society? Science & Medicine vs. Diminin.

Crisis

- Will you try to disable/outlaw Visor technology?
Threats: Volya withdraws from the ICF, citing violations of their sovereignty. Many Volyans who find traditional etiquette stifling withdraw completely from public life.
- Or will you try to help the Volyans find less disruptive ways to incorporate Visor technology into their society?
Threats: Organized crime surges. A revolutionary counterculture develops among marginalized Volyans.

Characters

- Prash (d8): Antique Dealer (d8), Paternal (d8). TRADITIONAL (Volyan Etiquette applies to any Leadership & Negotiation or Strategy & Tactics challenges).
- Diminin (d6): Clumsy (d6), Shy (d6), Ashamed (d6).
- Volyan Etiquette (d10): Greetings / Partings (d6), Honorifics (d8), Public Announcements (d10 Sensitive).

Places

- Zephan: The capital city of Volya. It is a metropolis located in a desert near the terminator that separates the light and dark sides of the tidally-locked planet.
- Marketplace: A large building to shade trade goods from the sun. Once brightly patterned and ornately decorated, its facade is now a featureless blank canvas.

Mysteries

- Personal cloaking was recently invented on Volya.
The personal cloaking device is called a Visor. A Visor conceals its wearer from anyone whom they have not identified as a contact. Such permissions can be revoked at any time. Why would the Volyans want to hide from each other? What are the advantages / disadvantages of so severely limiting what information is publicly available?
- Volyans believe in a fundamental right to privacy.
Volyan magistrates have ruled that the use of personal cloaking technology cannot be infringed upon in any way. Accordingly, Visor usage has quickly become ubiquitous. How has the free use of personal cloaking changed Volyan Society? How has it impacted security and public safety?